Adlai Wins Vote Of Confidence In Home State

Kefauver Gets Only 31,111 Votes In Write-In Drive

CHICAGO (AP) — President Eisenhower appeared today to have beaten Adlai Stevenson in a total-vote popularity contest phase of the Illinois presidential primary. Stevenson won a home-state vote of confidence from Illinois Democrats, turning back a write-in challenge from Sen. Estes Kefauver.

Stevenson and Mr. Eisenhower engaged in a see-saw race for the biggest share of the total vote, but as late returns were tallied the President moved into a consistent lead of about 17,000 votes.

Mr. Eisenhower, with only nominal opposition in the Republican primary, piled up 699,873 votes with 8,922 of the state's 9,511 precincts counted. Stevenson had 682,969 on the basis of 8,777 precincts.

Stevenson led Mr. Eisenhower, 476,948 to 256,011 in the Democratic stronghold of Chicago and Cook County with only 29 precincts uncounted. But Mr. Eisenhower moved ahead downstate and in Chicago's Republican suburbs. His downstate margin was 443,862 to Stevenson's 206,021.

Only 79 Votes for Lausche

Kefauver, whose name was not on the ballot but whose supporters conducted a write-in drive, got only 31,111.

On the Republican ballot, Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif.) who entered the race before President Eisenhower announced he was a candidate and could not withdraw, got 30,774. Lar Daly, a perennial candidate, got 8,798.

On the Democratic side, a write-in effort on behalf of Gov. Frank Lausche of Ohio apparently never got off the ground, garnering only 79 votes.

Lightest Vote in 12 Years

It was not an out-and-out test of strength between Stevenson and the President because voters cannot cross party lines in Illinois primaries.

It was also the lightest Illinois primary vote in 12 years. There were hot contests for the gubernatorial nomination on both the Democratic and Republican sides of the ballots, but they did not lure voters to the polling places.

The downstate Illinois vote, including all of the state's rural ballots and ballots from several industrial cities, ran pro-Eisenhower as expected. Stevenson did well in Chicago, seat of one of the most powerful Democratic organizations in the nation.

Stevenson and the President fought it out in a state where the Democrat is a former governor, but which went for Eisenhower when the two men were rival presidential candidates in 1952.

Ohio's Gov. Frank Lausche and Sen. Stuart Symington also drew a scattering of write-in votes on the Democratic side. There were also a few write-ins for Vice President Richard M. Nixon on the GOP ballot.

Tops Kefauver's '52 Showing

Stevenson's total topped Kefauver's performance in the state's 1952 primary, when their positions were precisely reversed. In that year, the unopposed Kefauver got 526,301 votes. Stevenson got 54,336 write-ins, or 10 per cent.

Kefauver won that primary, but the Illinois convention delegation was not pledged to him. In like manner, the 50 convention delegates chosen by both the Republicans and Democrats in Tuesday's primary are not pledged to Stevenson or Mr. Eisenhower. The Democrats will choose 14 more delegates and the Republicans 10 more in conventions to be held later.

Barham, Franklin Named Delegates

The United Press reports that Le Roy Barham of Harrisburg and Gordon Franklin of Marion were the two winners for delegates to the Democratic national nomination convention from the 25th district.

STEVENSON smiles happily at vote in Illinois.

Ike, Stevenson Score Clean Sweep In Delegate Races

CHICAGO (AP) — President Eisenhower and Adlai Stevenson today appeared to have scored a clean sweep of Illinois delegates to their respective party conventions in the state's presidential preferential primary.

Illinois voters elected 50 delegates each to the Republican and Democratic national conventions. The GOP will appoint 10 more delegates to bring its convention strength to 60 delegates. Democrats will name 28 delegates with 12 vote each for a total of 78 delegates to the national convention.

Although the elected delegates are not pledged to the winners of the state preferential balloting, most, if not all, of them are expected to support the candidacies of Mr. Eisenhower and Stevenson.

No known backers of Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) were elected in the Democratic races, and similar supporters of Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif.) and Lar Daly appeared to be shut out in the GOP columns.

King Cole Continues Southern Tour Despite Intimidation on Stage

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Negro musician Nat King Cole promised today his show would go on in Dixie despite the intimidation by three white segregationists who pounced on him while he was singing to a packed audience and attempted to abduct him.

Cole received a slight back injury in the on-stage melee Tuesday night but came back to finish his singing performance after being treated by a doctor.

His manager, Robert Schwartz of New York, said Cole would go right ahead with his scheduled tour of southern states where racial incidents have occurred regularly in recent months.

The men who attacked Cole were intercepted by police before they could carry out their apparent plan to abduct the Negro musician. They were hustled to jail and charged with inciting a riot. Three others were booked on the same charges as accomplices and two more were held for questioning.

Against Rock and Roll Kenneth Adams, 35, a member of the Anniston, Ala., White Citizens Council board of directors, was identified as the apparent leader of the attack on Cole.

The Anniston council recently announced a campaign to rid Alabama of rock and roll music on charges it is "immoral" and inspired by the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People as a form of "integration brain wash" for southern white teenagers.

Kerr Nominated; Race Between Sullivan, McCormick Undetermined

Gordon E. Kerr is one Republican nominee for Representative for the 59th Representative district, but the other nominee has not been determined, with C. L. McCormick, Vienna, and Dale Sullivan, Harrisburg, running a close race.

In complete returns from a majority of the precincts in the eight counties of the district show Sullivan slightly in the lead, but ten of the precincts unreported are from Williamson county, where McCormick was running about three to one over Sullivan.

The vote from Saline, Massac, Pope, Hardin, Johnson and Gallatin complete, with one precinct missing out of Hamilton, and 10 out of Williamson, showed the following totals:

Kerr—18,246.
Sullivan—14,374.
McCormick—13,998.

Kerr, a resident of Brookport, sought re-election from the new 59th district, after serving as representative from the old 51st Senatorial district.

Republicans are nominating two and Democrats one, with three Representatives to be elected. Paul Powell, Democratic incumbent, received a flattering vote over the entire district, though he had no opposition.

A tabulation of the votes by counties for all candidates will be carried tomorrow or Friday by The Register.

Death Takes Mrs. Jennie Luckett, 81; Rites Friday 2 p. m.

Mrs. Jennie Dorris Luckett, 81, resident of 307 North Main street for many years, died Tuesday at 7:15 p. m. She had been in ill health for the past five years.

She was the daughter of the late Johnathan and Sarah Dorris, born September 25, 1874. On Oct. 12, 1893, she was united in marriage to Emmett H. Luckett who preceded her in death in April of 1916.

In former years she was quite active in the Ladies' Aid of the First Methodist church and held the office of chaplain in the Royal Neighbors lodge.

She is survived by one son, Hugh E. Luckett, Rock Island, Ill.; three daughters, Mrs. Helen Edelman, Denver, Colo., Daisy Reva Turner, Granite City, and Lorene L. Cozart, Harrisburg. Two children preceded her in death. She also leaves two stepchildren: Tom L. Luckett, Harrisburg, and Mary Williams of Carrier Mills; one sister, Daisy Dorris Hill, Miami, Fla., seven grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Cole is not a rock and roll artist. He is a master of the smooth school. Police said they had been tipped there might be trouble at the municipal auditorium where Cole was scheduled to appear before a packed audience of 3,000 white people.

They moved in fast when the three white men moved down the aisle of the darkened auditorium while Cole was on stage singing.

Officer Robert N. Higginbotham said he saw two men crawling upon the stage. He heard one of them say "Drag the ----- off the stage."

Cole said the most gratifying thing was the audience—"how they wanted me to come back so they could show they did not sanction or condone assault."

Governor Easy Winner Over His GOP Rivals

CHICAGO (AP) — It will be Gov. William G. Stratton vs. Herbert C. Paschen for governor in November. Stratton breezed through to an easy triumph over four Republican gubernatorial rivals in the primary while Paschen won a tougher fight over Morris B. Sachs.

Stratton, seeking a second term in the governor's mansion, encountered little opposition from his closest challenger, Warren E. Wright.

In the other major state races, Roscoe Bonjean of Springfield won the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor and Republican incumbent John William Chapman walked in unopposed as his party's choice.

Secretary of State Charles F. Carpenter won the GOP nomination in his bid for a second term. He will oppose David F. Mallet, a Collinsville auto dealer, who had no opposition among fellow Democrats.

Sachs' Strong Downstate Paschen, the endorsed candidate of the Democratic party, piled up a big margin in Cook County, but Sachs made a strong showing downstate.

With returns from 8,868 of the state's 9,511 precincts, Stratton had 494,202 votes to Wright's 169,817.

Three other GOP candidates trailed. Lar Daly of Chicago polled 22,748; Sidney McKee Ward of Benton had 15,859 and Anthony A. Polley of Chicago got 12,275.

Paschen rolled up 450,030 to Sachs' 313,871.

The little Chicago clothing merchant fared best in bucking the regular Democratic organization downstate where he polled 114,210 to Paschen's 111,701.

Paschen announced early today from his Chicago headquarters that he was honored that "the people of Illinois have chosen

Chicago Clothing Merchant Morris B. Sachs Gives Demo Machine a Scare

CHICAGO (AP) — A little, roly-poly Chicago clothing merchant gave the Illinois Democratic party machine its biggest scare in years today.

Morris B. Sachs, a rebel Democrat running on his "laundry ticket," almost pulled the political upset of the decade in bucking the party professionals in the state's primary.

His strong challenge for the gubernatorial nomination fell 11 short, late returns from Tuesday's vote showed today, but only after he gave party-backed Herbert C. Paschen the race of his life.

Sachs, who started his life in America as a door-to-door clothing salesman, beat the Democratic bosses in 8 of 50 Chicago precinct strongholds and actually piled up more votes downstate than his rival.

Scott Holds Lead in Race for GOP Nomination to Congress

Samuel Jack Scott, Metropolis attorney making his first political race, held a comfortable lead in the contest for the Republican nomination for Representative in Congress from the 25th district, according to returns received by The Register this morning.

With 276 precincts reporting out of a total of 364 in the district, Scott showed a 4,500 vote lead over his nearest opponent, Attorney Roy Gulley of Benton, and Scott appeared to be the stronger of the two in the precincts still unreported.

State Representative W. O. Verhines, Vienna, and Ray J. Hawkins, Marion, were running far behind in the contest, although Verhines carried Saline county and his home county, Johnson.

The tabulations (271 precincts out of 364): Samuel Jack Scott, 13,900; Roy Gulley, 9438; W. O. Verhines, 6036; Ray J. Hawkins, 1803.

If the trend continues and Scott is nominated, he will be thrown into the race against incumbent Democratic congressman Kenneth J. Gray, West Frankfort, in the general election in November. Gray was unopposed for the Democratic nomination.

Gibbons, Bowers Win Republican Primary Races

Giles Beats Thornton In Close Race for Coroner by Democrats

Elmer Gibbons and Quentin Bowers won their county primary races handsily yesterday but A. E. "Red" Giles and James Thornton battled neck and neck right down the line before the final precinct gave the edge to Giles in his race for the Democratic nomination for coroner by an unofficial margin of around 40 votes.

Gibbons of Harrisburg, the present coroner, defeated Ike Willford of Eldorado by more than 1,600 votes to be renominated on the Republican ticket. Third in the balloting was Alonzo Beal of Harrisburg.

Bowers, also a Harrisburg Republican, defeated Rufus Davidson of Harrisburg by more than 1,500 votes to be renominated for circuit clerk.

Wilson, Burroughs Unopposed Those were the only races for county offices. On the Democratic ballot incumbent Robert V. Wilson was unopposed for state's attorney and James R. Burroughs for circuit clerk, Wilson piling up around 3,600 votes and Burroughs around 3,500.

(TABULATION OF COUNTY VOTES ON PAGE FOUR)

The Republicans had no candidate on the ballot for state's attorney, but Jack C. Morris, Eldorado lawyer now an assistant U. S. attorney in the East St. Louis district, received a write-in which would give him the nomination if he wants it.

So the November election lineup for county offices is: For state's attorney: Robert V. Wilson D vs. Jack Morris R if Morris wants to accept the nomination.

For circuit clerk: James R. Burroughs D vs. Quentin Bowers R.

For coroner: A. E. Giles D vs. Elmer Gibbons R.

All figures on the election are unofficial and subject to change, but they are definite enough to show a number of things.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND by DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
Small Town Reporter Gets Headlines From White House;
He Is Choosy About Answering Some Newsmen; He Gets Both Serious And Irritated
About Potential Near East War.

WASHINGTON. — "Getting a question answered at a White House press conference is becoming somewhat like getting recognized on the floor of the House of Representatives. You sometimes have to tip off the speaker in advance that you want to speak, and even so he will deliberately not recognize someone he figures is going to cause trouble.

So also at the White House.
Last week, the President showed signs of becoming extremely selective in answering questions.
Lester E. Yeager, the correspondent made repeated attempts to obtain recognition, but out of the 18 correspondents recognized, four were New York Times men, two from the New York Herald Tribune, two from the Chicago Daily News. Other correspondents recognized were: AP, UP, CBS, NBC, Gannett Newspapers, Washington Post, Newsweek, Cowles Publications, Reuters, and Sarah Mc-Clendon of the El Paso Times,
Sherman Democrat, San Antonio Light, Austin American, and Longview News and Journal, all in Texas.

Out of the press conference transcript of 92 news column inches, one-fourth was devoted to questions from the New York Times, the same newspaper which graduated Press Secretary Jim Hagerty into government service.

Yet it was the question asked by a small town reporter, Miss Mc-Clendon, that got the big headlines next day. She was also the only small town reporter who managed to get an answer from the President and she had quite a hard time getting it.

PERSISTENT LADY

From the start of the press conference Miss McClendon kept bobbing up. But the President did not choose to see her. Once when she addressed him: "Mr. President," he abruptly turned to N. Y.
Times reporter James Reston who sat off in a corner and was not noticeably making an effort to obtain recognition.

The persistent Miss McClendon, who never gets discouraged at having her ears pinned back, persevered. And toward the end of the press conference she managed to get out this important question, which the President seemed almost intuitively to have been ducking:
"Would you order those Marines that were sent over to the Mediterranean and over in that area," she asked, "would you order them to war without asking the Congress first?"

The official transcript of the press conference as released to the public by James Hagerty bore a notation at this point: "Laughter." However, newsmen attending the conference remember no laughter, and some suspect the word was inserted as an attempt to belittle Miss McClendon. Certainly it was a most serious question, and the President's reply indicated that he considered it so.
"I get discouraged sometimes here," he said, obviously irritated.

NO LAUGHING MATTER

At this point there was definite laughter, though the conference transcript did not so indicate. It was quickly stopped, however, as newsmen saw how serious and irritated the President was.

"I have announced time and time again," he continued, "I will never be guilty of any kind of action that can be interpreted as war until Congress, which has the constitutional authority, says so.

"Now, I have said this so often that it seems almost ridiculous to ask me the question. I am—look, how can a war be conducted? You have got to have troops, you have got to have money. How could you conduct a war without Congress?

"Now their constitutional power is to declare war, and I am going to observe them."
Here the President went on to make a notable exception—namely,
"Local warlike acts" which is frequently the way wars get started.

"Now, there are times when troops, to defend themselves, may have to be, you might say, undertake local warlike acts; but that is not the declaration of war, and that is not going to war, and I am not going to order any troops into anything that can be interpreted as war until Congress directs it."

Behind the importance of Miss McClendon's question was the fact that the British had just decided to use troops, if necessary, to prevent an Arab attack on Israel. Prime Minister Eden had privately queried President Eisenhower whether he would do the same.

Note — What Eisenhower called "local warlike acts" actually got us into war in Korea, into war with Mexico, and into the Civil War without any declaration of war by Congress. Congressman Abraham Lincoln, before becoming President, introduced the famous "Spot resolution" calling upon President Polk to state when and where the Mexicans had committed an act of aggression justifying a declaration of Congress. Later, as President, Lincoln himself took action against Southern forces at Fort Sumter without a declaration from Congress.

WASHINGTON PIPELINE

Harry Truman has confided to friends he is worried about the fact that two of the top Democratic candidates for president have been divorced. He feels that the example Princess Margaret of England gave the world in vetoing a divorcee, Group Captain Peter Townsend, will hurt any American candidate who has been divorced. So far no divorced man has ever been elected president of the United States. . . . George Morris Fay, new counsel for the Senate gas-probe committee, is an A-1 choice, will do a good job if not hamstrung by his Senate bosses.
A U. S. senator, Republican, has just been cited by the Justice Department, also Republican.
He's Senator Hruska of Nebraska, one of the owners of the Center

ing prices and threatening to boycott motion picture distributors who supply movies to low-price fate.

One of the twin girls, two-year-old Kathleen van Lopik died Tuesday. Her identical twin, Eileen, died six weeks ago.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. John van Lopik, said they accepted the double tragedy as "God's will."

"It will all be explained to us some day," they said.

Doctors said the fact that both of the twin girls contracted and died of the incurable disease was a
"one in a million medical rarity."
No Longer Suffering

"My wife and I are relieved now that Kathleen has gone," said Van Lopik, a 25-year-old furniture worker. "We are actually happy to know that she no longer is suffering."

"It's a blessing that she died and a relief for us to know she is happy now in Heaven," he said.

Van Lopik's brother, William, said the couple took Kathleen's death "wonderfully." "God certainly has given them a tremendous capacity to understand his work," he said.

He took the bereaved parents into the seclusion of his home to recoup from their ordeal and contemplate the future.

Sighs Before Dying

"They can't help wondering if their unborn child will suffer the same fate," he said.

Doctors said Kathleen was more active as she neared death than was her sister who died Feb. 26.
But although Kathleen was restless most of the day, she died quietly after emitting a little sigh, they said.

Tears streamed down the face of her mother, Rhoda, 25, but she kept her composure and did not break down. The couple's pastor, the Rev. Raymond H. Haan, comforted her.

Van Lopik arrived at the hospital only a few minutes after the child died.

The fatal blood disease was dis-

Miss Alvina Shestak Speaks To Kupples Class Of Methodist Church

In Wesley Center on Monday night the Kupples Class of the First Methodist church heard Miss Alvina Shestak give an entertaining and instructive review of her recent European trip. Miss Shestak vividly described the beauty and majesty of the many wonderful cathedrals, including St. Paul's in London and St. Peter's in Rome.

Her account of her visit to the Acropolis in Athens where St. Paul preached about the "Unknown God" was deeply moving. The class expressed appreciation and the hope that Miss Shestak will talk a second time at a later date.

Mrs. J. D. Morse gave an inspirational devotion concerning "A Second Chance."

L. B. Kimmel, class president, presided at the business meeting. The treasurer, William Biggers, reported that the Kupples have paid almost all of their $2500 building pledge, as well as having paid for the shrubbery which landscaped the church grounds.

Former House Leader Beaten In Primary

CHICAGO (U.P.)—Former House Majority Leader Franklin U. Strassky (R-Savanna) and State Sen. Clyde C. Trager (R-Peoria) were among incumbent legislators defeated in Tuesday's primary.

At least three other sitting state senators were threatened with defeat as they trailed in early returns. They were W. P. Cuthbertson (R-Carlinville), William F. Hensley (R-Lawrenceville), and Charles W. Baker (R-Davis Junction).

Sen. R. G. Crisenberry (R-Murphysboro) apparently eked out a victory. Another winner was Sen. Roland V. Libonati (D-Chicago), who announced his retirement at the end of the 1955 legislative session.

Hubert C. Woodruff of Peoria defeated Trager, a three-term senator. Strassky was beaten out by two other incumbents who were put into his district by legislative reapportionment, Harold W. Widmer of Freeport and George S. Brydia of Prophetstown.

In Chicago's 20th District, Reps. William H. Robinson and Ernest A. Greene met for a single Republican nomination. Robinson won. Reps. Clyde Lee of Mount Vernon and Bert Baker of Benton won 57th District Democratic nominations from Rep. Dean Hammack of Pinckneyville.

Rep. Paul Zeigler (D-Carmel) won a contested Senate nomination.

tion, beat his opponent, Nicholas Bohling, nearly four to one.

The Saline GOP gave W. O. Verhines a margin over Samuel J. Scott, who finished a strong second, in the race for congressman, and gave Dale Sullivan of Harrisburg more than 7,000 votes, compared with less than 3,500 for Gordon Kerr of Brookport, second in the race, for state representative.

W. K. Tim Turner apparently received a write-in election to the post of representative committeeman.

Few Kefauver Write-Ins
The Democrats of the county stood by Adlai Stevenson in the presidential preference race with Estes Kefauver getting but about 300 write-ins in the unofficial count. They backed the organization candidate for governor, Herbert C. Paschen, over Morris B. Sachs, by nearly a 1,000-vote margin and gave LeRoy Barham, local resident who is a delegate to the Democratic National convention, a vote of more than 3,000 compared with an 1850-vote for Gordon Franklin of Marion and about 850 for J. Palmer Rea of Benton.

The county Democrats elected Ezra Heathly their representative committeeman over George Rees by a margin of about 850 votes.

There was no opposition for a number of offices on the Democratic ticket, including congressman and representative, where incumbents Kenneth Gray and Paul Powell got nice votes.

Complete unofficial vote by precinct is carried in today's Daily Register.

Eisenhower Signs Colorado River Basin Project

AUGUSTA, Ga. (U.P.)—President Eisenhower today endorsed the "top-to-bottom" theory of river valley development as he signed legislation for the Upper Colorado River Basin project.

Sitting in his small office overlooking a rainswept Augusta National Golf course, the President said the Upper Colorado bill "represents one thing I believe in."

He added that he likes the bill because it follows his idea of "treating river valleys as a whole thing—it goes from top to bottom—it recognizes that one thing is certainly true—water is getting to be our most valuable resource."

The Upper Colorado River storage project is a four-state water and power supply system dreamed of for half a century.

The bill calls for construction of four major power dams and 11 water supply units on the Colorado and its tributaries. The works will

Home Precinct Votes Solidly for Stevenson

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (U.P.)—Democrats in the "home" precinct of former Gov. Adlai Stevenson went solidly for Stevenson in the primary Tuesday.

The former governor captured all votes cast for a Democratic presidential nominee in his home precinct. And his sister, Mrs. Ernest Ipes was elected Democratic precinct committeeman by a write-in vote.

Out of 50 Democratic ballots cast in the precinct of the Stevenson family home, 43 were for Stevenson. The other seven didn't vote for a presidential nominee.

In Memoriam
In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Eveline Owens, who departed this life three years ago, April 11:
Wouldn't it be wonderful if we could see,
Our dear mother as she used to be,
Wouldn't it be wonderful to see her smile,
And have her back for a little while,
We could be wrong for wanting her so,
When the angels wanted her too,
We know,
Could we be wrong for missing her too,
And all the things she used to do,
No, we wouldn't disturb her peaceful rest,
For we know above all God knows best,
So he called her to his home on high.
But we will miss our dear mother till the day we die.
Sadly missed by husband and children. *242-1

Auction Sales to Dispose of James C. Ellis Race Horses

OWENSBORO, Ky. — One of the largest auction sales of thoroughbred race horses ever held in this section is being scheduled for this month to dispose of the racing stable and breeding industry of the late James C. Ellis. The sales are being conducted by Lester E. Yeager, executor and trustee under the will of Mr. Ellis.

The sales will be held on Mondays, April 16, April 23 and April 30 by Henderson Van Zandt, special agent of the executor and trustee, with Malcom Gibson, of Providence, Ky., serving as auctioneer. Miss Ruth Farris, will be clerk at the auction.

Van Zandt has served as racing secretary for a number of years during the annual racing meetings of the Dade Park Jockey Club and is familiar with the horses listed for sale. He has compiled a complete breeding and racing record of the thoroughbreds which is available in catalogues that can be obtained by contacting Miss Anna M. Fisher, 112 East Third street, Owensboro, Ky. Miss Fisher is secretary-treasurer of the Dade Park Jockey Club.

The first sale will be held Monday, April 16 at the James C. Ellis Park, Race Track (formerly Dade Park), operated by the Dade Park Jockey Club. The park is located on U. S. Highway 41, midway between Evansville, Ind., and Henderson, Ky. At this sale nineteen two-year-olds and twelve older horses in training will be up for auction.

The second and third sales will be held at the horse race farm on the Carter Road just southwest of the Owensboro City limits. To be sold at these auctions will be fifty-four broodmares, nine stallions, 23 yearlings and 10 weanlings or sucklings.

All sales will start at 1:30 p. m.

Former Bradley Track Coach Named Basketball Mentor at Monmouth

MONMOUTH, Ill. — Appointment of Charles Larson, former track coach at Bradley university, as basketball coach at Monmouth college was confirmed Tuesday night by the board of trustees.

Larson, a graduate of Culver-Stockton college, formerly coached at Monmouth high school for four years, resigning in 1950 to enter business in Peoria. Earlier he coached at high schools in Afton and Atlantic, Iowa, as well as at Churchill Junior high school in Galesburg, Ill.

Larson was a track star in college and was rated a major contender for a U. S. Olympic team berth in the decathlon in 1940, when the games were canceled.

Patterson KO's Williams in 3rd

KANSAS CITY, Kan. — Top-ranked light heavyweight Floyd Patterson and manager Gus D'Amato left for New York today jubilant after Patterson's knockout over Chief Alvin Williams and D'Amato announced he will attempt later this week to patch up his "differences" with the International Boxing Club.

The New York fighter, just as fast a puncher as usual despite several additional pounds, sank a terrific right under Williams' heart at 1:58 of the third round. Williams dropped like a sack of sand and never stirred.

D'Amato said he hoped to line up some bouts "right away" if he can get reconciled with the IBC.

Patterson weighed 183 to Williams' 176.

Petersen Likes Dodgers and Yankees With Braves, Red Sox as Runnerup

Cardinals and White Sox Picked For Third Place

By LEO H. PETERSEN
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK — The Dodgers and the Yankees. That's this baseball observer's selections for the coming season, just as they were last spring.

Here are the top to bottom picks in both leagues, based on six weeks of covering the spring training camps:

National	American
1-Brooklyn	1-New York
2-Milwaukee	2-Boston
3-St. Louis	3-Chicago
4-Cincinnati	4-Cleveland
5-Philadelphia	5-Detroit
6-New York	6-Kansas City
7-Chicago	7-Washington
8-Pittsburgh	8-Baltimore

Although the Dodgers may have pitching problems, with Johnny Podres in the Navy and Billy Loes and Karl Spooner nursing the same arm ailments which plagued them last season, they appear to be the class of the field. They have the best defensive team in the league, the strongest bench, and more than enough hitting.

The Braves' hopes were high until Gene Conley, the key man on their pitching staff, came up with his chronic back ailment again. Without a healthy Conley, Milwaukee doesn't figure to go all the way, for no matter how good a club is, it can't afford to lose its No. 1 stopper.

Under a new manager, Freddie Hutchinson, who has instilled a new spirit among the players, the Cardinals promise to be the surprise club of the lot. Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell is back out of the Army, and he may give the mound corps the shot in the arm it needed so badly in 1955.

Redlegs Need Pitching

Cincinnati, like St. Louis, also has pitching problems. The Redlegs could well be the powerhouse of the league, but their defense does not match their hitting and they could fall below par at third base, left field and catching.

Outside of Robin Roberts, who is as good as they come, the Phillies also lack pitching. They lack power, too, although they have the league's leading hitter in Richie Ashburn. The Giants, despite the brilliant Willie Mays, don't figure and neither do the Cubs and Pirates.

The other seven American League managers agree that Casey Stengel of the Yankees has the "best and most talent." Stengel doesn't know who his leftfielder is going to be or what four players will make up the infield, but the other managers would like to have the same problem. Stengel has the men who can do the job—it's just a matter of picking the starters.

Cleveland appears to have lost too much power when it gave up Larry Doby to the White Sox for Chico Carrasquel and Jim Busby and it needs plenty of power to back up its pitching, for its infield is shoddy defensively.

Yanks Fear Boston

The Red Sox are the team Stengel fears most. Boston's only problem appears to be the infield, which has been poor defensively. But Mickey Vernon should help at first and if two rookies, shortstop Don Buddin and third baseman Frank Malzone, come through, that infield weakness will be plugged.

The White Sox are likely to run into pitching trouble, although they figure in the pennant picture because of the power they gained when they acquired Doby.

Detroit is building on youth and any club with players like shortstop Harvey Kuenn, American League batting champion Al Kaline and third baseman Ray Boone—a good bet to drive in more than 100 runs—can't be counted out of the running.

As for the Athletics, Senators and Orioles, they'll be going along just for the ride.

Williams Hits First Homer as Red Sox Win, 21-1

By United Press

The Boston Red Sox are finally squared away today for the opening of the American League pennant chase. Ted Williams has found the home run range and is stepping up his training campaign.

The 37-year-old, $100,000-a-year outfielder blasted his first homer of the Grapefruit League season Tuesday and Boston enthusiasts considered it no coincidence that the Red Sox crushed the Philadelphia Phillies, 21-1, at Greenville, S. C.

In addition to Williams' three-run homer, Jackie Jensen, Faye Throneberry, Jimmy Piersall and Frank Malzone walloped round-trippers in a 24-hit attack that backed four-hit pitching by Mel Parnell and Frank Baumann.

Catcher Joe Ginsberg hit a two-run homer in the ninth inning to give the Kansas City Athletics a 4-2 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

At Knoxville, Tenn., the Washington Senators gained a 4-4 split in their spring series with the Cincinnati Redlegs when they pounded out a 9-8 verdict.

In the only other game played, the New York Yankees got eight-hit pitching from Whitney Ford and Bob Grim to beat Dallas of the Texas League, 6-3.

Hammaraskjold Confers with Egypt's Nasser

CAIRO, Egypt (UP)—U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold pleaded today with Egyptian Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser for peace in the Holy Land.

They met in Nasser's office to the wailing of an air raid siren test and against a background of new Israeli charges of "acts of terror" in Israel during the night.

The meeting lasted 75 minutes and Hammarskjold told reporters he would confer again with Nasser before leaving Cairo.

Asked to comment on a report he had submitted a six-point compromise plan to Nasser to settle the crisis he said the report was "very imaginative." He said nothing more.

High Egyptian sources said Nasser, key man in the Middle East crisis, was prepared to propose creation of a military vacuum between Egyptian and Israeli forces as the best means of keeping the peace.

This would be accomplished by pulling back troops one kilometer (six-tenths of a mile) from each side of the border. He has made such a suggestion before. This would be a formal proposal.

But Israel said Hammarskjold's mission would be useless unless he wrung a promise from Nasser to end the terror activities of Fedayeen — the door-die commandos who have struck deep inside Israel.

ABC Offers Radio, TV Facilities for Debate By Stevenson, Kefauver

NEW YORK — The American Broadcasting Co. has offered use of its national radio and television facilities to Sen. Estes Kefauver and Adlai E. Stevenson for a discussion of campaign issues.

Robert E. Kintner, ABC president, made the offer Tuesday to the Democratic presidential aspirants. He invited them to appear during the week of May 21 but said other time could be arranged if they preferred it.

Stevenson has accepted Kefauver's invitation for a public discussion of the issues during the week of May 21, in Florida.

Registration April 20 For Kindergarten Pupils at Carrier Mills

Registration for kindergarten pupils for the 1956-57 school term at Carrier Mills will be held Friday, April 20.

At this time anyone not attending kindergarten during the present school year, but who will be in the first grade next fall should also register.

To be eligible for kindergarten, a child must reach five years of age before the end of 1956 and must reach the sixth birthday by the end of the year to enter the first grade. All children registering should bring a birth certificate.

Williams Hits First Homer as Red Sox Win, 21-1

By United Press

The Boston Red Sox are finally squared away today for the opening of the American League pennant chase. Ted Williams has found the home run range and is stepping up his training campaign.

The 37-year-old, $100,000-a-year outfielder blasted his first homer of the Grapefruit League season Tuesday and Boston enthusiasts considered it no coincidence that the Red Sox crushed the Philadelphia Phillies, 21-1, at Greenville, S. C.

In addition to Williams' three-run homer, Jackie Jensen, Faye Throneberry, Jimmy Piersall and Frank Malzone walloped round-trippers in a 24-hit attack that backed four-hit pitching by Mel Parnell and Frank Baumann.

Catcher Joe Ginsberg hit a two-run homer in the ninth inning to give the Kansas City Athletics a 4-2 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

At Knoxville, Tenn., the Washington Senators gained a 4-4 split in their spring series with the Cincinnati Redlegs when they pounded out a 9-8 verdict.

In the only other game played, the New York Yankees got eight-hit pitching from Whitney Ford and Bob Grim to beat Dallas of the Texas League, 6-3.

Herb Score IN THE Sport Parade

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK — This may be the year in which Herb Score starts proving that he is the greatest southpaw since Lefty Grove.

That's the prospective tag they hung on him last season when the Indian fireballer won 16 games and set an all-time rookie record of 245 strikeouts. Wildness alone was blamed for his failure to win 20 games.

But from out of the West comes the word that the modest 22-year-old finally has controlled his curve ball.

If that is so, American league batters are in for a rough season whenever Score is on the mound. And there is evidence at hand to support the claim.

For in 27 innings this spring, Score walked only 12 men while striking out 25. Over that stretch he yielded only 13 hits and three runs.

Source of Wonder

Score's throwing arm has been a source of wonder ever since he was a youngster. The first one to be surprised was his mother.

"Almost as soon as I could walk, I opened the refrigerator door and started throwing eggs all over the kitchen," he recalls with a grin.

"And as a kid, I never thought of hitting anybody when I got mad. I'd pick up something and throw it."

In the fall of 1952, after Cleveland had signed him for a $60,000 bonus, he startled Birdie Tebbetts, current manager of the Cincinnati Redlegs who then was a Cleveland catcher. Young Herb, at the tail end of his first season in organized ball, was called up to the stadium for a look-see.

Tebbetts was catching him when the youngster said:

"Here comes a fast ball."

"Fast ball," Tebbetts screamed, "what is that you've been throwing?"

"Oh, I was just loosening up," Herb replied.

Tebbetts called time and went over to Joe Tipton, another catcher.

"You catch him," Birdie said. "If that was just warming up, his fast ball will go right through me."

Led in Strikeouts

Herb went back on the farm for two years and at Indianapolis in 1954 led the association with 22 wins and 330 strikeouts—but also led in walks with 140.

Still, when he came up last spring he was a sensation. Art Nehf, a pitching star for John McGraw in the '20's, took one look and labeled the six foot, two inch thin man "The greatest young southpaw I've seen since Lefty Grove."

But that wildness hurt Score in the first half of the season as he could do no better than an 8-7 mark to that point. His curve just wouldn't take orders and for a time young Herb feared that it might cause his eviction from the major leagues. But Manager Al Lopez stuck with him and gradually the young man recovered reasonable control.

So he wound up with a 16-10 mark and broke Grover Cleveland Alexander's rookie strikeout mark of 227 set "way back in 1911. He was the league's rookie of the year in a county canter.

Imagine, they said, what he would have done with control. So, if he has it, as the spring figures indicate, Herb is on his way.

School Children Form Safety Patrols

THE SAFETY OF HARRISBURG SCHOOL CHILDREN crossing streets is a three phase program, with the children, city police and motorists all cooperating. The fine cooperation has made it possible for school children to cross the busy streets of the city this term without accident. Chief of Police Ross Lane is high in his praise of the school children and stated "the motorists cooperate 100 per cent." Typical of work done by the patrols is the scene in bottom picture of a Horace Mann school patrol in action at the corner of Granger and West Poplar streets. Many pupils are given the opportunity and responsibility of patrol work during the school term and the top picture shows the students who have served as patrol boys and girls for Horace Mann this year—

Sieben Elected President of Gas Company

At the annual meeting held on April 3, Ralph L. Sieben, Chicago, was elected president of United Cities Utilities company to succeed Arthur K. Lee who was elected chairman of the board and who will continue his active association with the company and its subsidiaries. After graduation from Knox college in 1931, Mr. Sieben served in the capacities of salesman, local manager and district manager in several towns in Wisconsin and Illinois until he was transferred to the Chicago office in 1938 where he was vice president and general manager for the ten year period prior to his election as executive vice president in 1951.

Mr. Sieben also has been elected president of Southeastern Illinois Gas company which is the subsidiary of United Cities Utilities company, furnishing service locally. In the 15 years since his election as vice president and general manager in 1941, the number of gas customers in Harrisburg has increased from 651 to 1,692 largely as a result of natural gas having been introduced here to provide the most modern type of fuel.

H. C. Lewis, the present district manager, was employed in 1930 and is the oldest employee in point of years of service. He recently was presented with a 25-year service pin in recognition of his many years of contributing to the economic and social welfare of this community.

SIU Touring Theatre Troupe to Present Two Plays at Bonnell Gym on April 18

CARBONDALE, Ill. — The Southern Illinois university touring theatre troupe, now in its fourth season on the road, will present a children's play and a three act comedy for adults in Harrisburg Wednesday, April 18.

"Jack and the Beanstalk," a full dramatization of the legendary fable, will be performed for Harrisburg grade school students at 2 p. m. in Bonnell gymnasium. Admission price for the youngsters will be 25 cents.

Patterson Greene's three act comedy, "Papa Is All," is scheduled for performance at 7:30 p. m.

in Bonnell gym. Ticket price is 50 cents.

Under the direction of Dr. Archibald McLeod, professor of speech at Southern, the dozen speech and drama students who comprise the company hit the road March 19 on a downstate swing that will include 28 southern Illinois communities. The actors alternate roles so that each one does stage duty in both plays. They also construct and set up their own sets, make and repair costumes, administer makeup, take tickets, and generally perform all the chores of practical play production.

In most communities, service clubs, women's groups, school organizations and community agencies book the shows, using the profits for civic projects. Sponsoring the plays in Harrisburg is the Saline County College club. Profits will be used in the group's college loan fund.

The Southern Players produce four campus plays each school year, the last one being the show which is featured on the tour. "Papa Is All" will play to SIU audiences the third week in May. Previously this season, the Players staged "My Three Angels," "Cry, the Beloved Country," and Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night."

The plot of "Papa" revolves around the rigid control of his family by a Pennsylvania Mennonite whose religious sincerity is considerably less than advertised. "Papa" vows un-Christian vengeance when his daughter sneaks away from home to see her first movie and promptly falls in love with a surveyor.

Members of the Southern Players touring company cast are Charles Anderson, W. Frankfort; Stanley Bushkill, Norris City; Hal Choisser, Chicago; Phyllis Hall, McLeansboro; Doris Drage, Richview; Carol and Jerry Van Dover, Poplar Bluff, Mo.; Joe Embser, Benton; Beverly Fossieck, Granite City; Jane Herr, Warrensburg; Glen Pyle, Norris City and Peggy Vallett, Herrin.

Income Tax, First Imposed In 1913, was Gradually Eased Into a Big Bite

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (U)—There's an old story about a camel which got its nose under his Arab master's tent, probably to keep his nose warm. Anyway, the camel kept easing in until all of him was inside the tent and the Arab master was outside.

There wasn't enough room for both of them. Maybe that's the way it will be with the income tax, which is not a work of the devil, as many suppose about this time of year.

The income tax was the work of two presidents and two congresses, equally divided between Republicans and Democrats. President Taft and a Republican Congress started the 16th Amendment to the Constitution on its way in 1909.

Not Faintest Idea
President Wilson and a Democratic Congress imposed the first individual income tax in 1913. There could not have been one among the state and national legislators who voted for the 16th Amendment who had the faintest idea what the gradual individual income tax would become. President Eisenhower plans to tap individual income taxpayers for about $35 billion in the next fiscal year.

There was an understanding all around when the 16th Amendment was adopted that it never would be much of a tax. And that was the way it started, a tap on the wrist. Under the first income tax act, a married person with two dependents and a net income of $3,000 paid no tax at all. Exempt. On a net income of $5,000 he paid two tenths of one per cent. That came to $10.

A $10,000-a-year husband with two dependents paid six-tenths of one per cent under the 1913 act—

$60. If this person had a net income of $5 million a year, the government told him to come across with 6.8 per cent of it, less than $350,000. The $5 million man now would pay more than $4 million.

The World War I 1917 Revenue Act tapped a married man with two dependents and $2,500 net income for $2. His tax went to $6 under the 1918 wartime Revenue Act but dropped to $4 before he was exempted altogether by the Revenue Act of 1921. It was not until 1941 that the $2,500 net family man had to pay income taxes again. His bill then was $12.

Paid 6.3 Per Cent

The $3,000-a-year family man under the 1945 World War II tax bill paid at the rate of 6.3 per cent. That is just about the rate at which the $5 million man paid in 1913. The $5,000 man with two dependents who paid $10 in 1913 had to pay $156 in 1918. It was down to $104 the next year, then to $68, and in the 1928 Revenue Act this man's payment dropped to $8 and then to $3.

The record will show that the Democratic party usually has raised income taxes and that the Republicans have sought to lower them. The big bulge began in 1932, during the last of the Hoover administration, but taxes dropped back again briefly under FDR. In 1941 they started to zoom and they still are up there after considerable climbing.

Gov't to Stage Giant Practice A-Alert in July

WASHINGTON (U)—The government announced today that it will stage another nationwide atomic alert in July to test home defenses. It said President Eisenhower will take part.

"Operation Alert 1956" will be held from July 20 through July 26. Military, civil defense, and government officials all will take part in the giant exercise. Canada likewise has indicated it will participate.

Plans for the alert were announced jointly by the Office of Defense Mobilization and the Civil Defense Administration. They said this year marks the first time the military has taken part.

The announcement said 76 areas in the United States and its territories and possessions theoretically will be subject to nuclear attack during a five-year period. These will include 63 population centers, 9 air bases and 4 Atomic Energy Commission installations.

The theoretical atomic bombs to be dropped will range in power from the equivalent of 20,000 tons to 5,000,000 tons of TNT. The announcement said it will be assumed that five bombs will have been delivered by submarines launched missiles and the rest dropped from aircraft.

Fifty-two areas will be "hit" by single bombs, while 24 areas will be "hit" by from two to five bombs in a single attack.

Woman's Club to Buy Library Books for Special Memorial Shelf

Purchase of two books in memory of Mrs. N. A. Herrmann and Mrs. Oral P. Tuttle, both past officers of the Harrisburg Woman's club, was authorized by the executive board of the Woman's club Saturday. These books are to be placed on a special memorial shelf, in the public library and are to be chosen from expensive better types of books, Mrs. L. B. Kimmel, president of the club, said.

Purchase of memorial books instead of flowers was instituted by the Woman's club about three years ago. Anyone wishing to add their memorial tribute in the form of a good book may do so, Mrs. Kimmel said.

H. CLAY TATE, editor of Bloomington Pantagraph, will appear at Southern Illinois university April 18-20 as Elijah P. Lovejoy lecturer in journalism. He also will address the spring meeting of the Southern Illinois Editorial association on April 19. He formerly worked on the editorial staff of The Daily Register.

The Angry Hills

By Leon M. Uris

THE STORY: Mike Morrison, an American caught by the Nazi invasion of Greece in 1941, did not realize until too late that the "innocent" paper he was asked to deliver was for British Intelligence and German agents will stop at nothing to get it. Dressing in an Anzac uniform, he goes afoot with troops retreating southward. Mike fears two men, who are looking for him. One is in a New Zealand uniform, the other is a short man with horn-rimmed glasses.

Darkness fell on the Peloponnese. The soldiers fell into fitful exhausted sleep. But Michael Morrison dared not indulge in the luxury. Through bloodshot eyes he kept vigil during the black hours. A vigil against the little man in the horn-rimmed glasses and the tall blond man who called himself Jack Mosley. Everyone was to be eyed with suspicion.

Dawn. The Stukas came and found them. The turkey shoot was on again. Seven times during the day the group was sighted and seven times they flung themselves to earth. . . . and each time they arose and reeled about like punch-drunk fighters and pushed on.

The third day found them cowering in a lemon grove near a village, sweating out the daylight hours. A wonderful daze enveloped Mike. He could see and he could hear but sounds seemed to come from a great distance. He could touch but he was numb to feeling. He could walk without falling but had no sense of movement. He could speak but his words were inaudible to him.

He cocked his head and looked down the rows of lemon trees. Sunlight filtering through the tree tops created weird shadows, and the shadows flickered under a soft breeze.

A sudden glint at the edge of the grove some 300 yards away caught his attention. Mike blinked. The glint again—the man's glasses. The figure walked slowly between two rows of trees, half in shadow, half in dancing sunlight. . . . A small man—a very small man—and he walked through the shadows toward the group of sleeping soldiers.

"Where the devil do you think you're going?" the Aussie captain said.

"Water," Mike rasped. "I need water. Village . . ."

The captain was about to order him back to the grove. He studied Morrison. The bloke was in wretched condition . . . worse off than the rest of his troops. He carried no rations or canteen. Perhaps it would be better to let him get some food and water and freshen up. Otherwise they may have to be packing him and he'd slow the whole group down.

"Very well," the captain said, "but be back in an hour."

Mike headed down the path. . . .

Mike stepped into a dirt square surrounded by a few dozen white stucco huts. In a moment he was engulfed by a half hundred peasants, women and little children for the most part.

He took a kidskin of water from one of the peasants and the dryness loosened under the cool sweet taste.

A woman shoved a loaf of bread into his hands and another gave him a cheese. He tore at the bread and stuffed it into his mouth and drank some more of the sweet water.

The plane struck so fast no one heard it coming. It streaked from the sky and roared over the square, its machine guns ablaze.

A little girl of about four lay dead in the square, clutching a rag doll. She had pretty black curls and she held her doll tightly against her.

The villagers began to edge back into the square. He could not face them. He turned and ran past the white huts onto the path.

"You there! I've been looking for you!"

Mike whirled around.

A Palestinian sergeant walked up the path to him. "The captain sent me for you. We're going to push on."

The Palestinian steadied him and helped him back to the lemon grove where the troops were muttering as they struggled into their packs.

A beam of sunlight struck Mike's eyes. He blinked them open and propped up on his elbows. He pushed aside a branch and saw the fading sun. He had slept most of the day.

He removed the kidskin from his shoulder and took a long swallow, then splashed some water over his face. He ate some of the bread and cheese, then gently worked his shoes back onto his feet.

He worked his way through the trees toward the sound as it continued to grow louder and more boisterous. Mike halted at the edge of the woods. Stretched across the shallow beach he saw hundreds of men. Units had been coming through the mountains for this rendezvous all day, he thought.

A ship stood offshore, blinking out a message.

Mike caught snatches of the men's talk.

"Prince Line steamer . . . An 8000 tonner . . ."

The wave of optimism on the beach ebbed into a feeling of uneasiness. An hour later conversation was down to a feeble hum which gradually dwindled to a few suspicious whispers. . . .

Thinking It Over

By Robert Dieffenbacher, D. D.
Written for NEA Service

This is National Sunday School Week. Through the years, the Sunday schools of America have served the nation in building a Christian foundation for the future. Even before churches were organized, Sunday schools were established.

In the pioneering of our country one of the first endeavors of people was to set up crossroads Sunday schools.

In these Sunday schools the children and adults studied the Bible and the application of religious principles to daily living. Our high standards of living have grown out of these Sunday schools and out of the churches of which they are a vital part.

Millions of Americans have come to take the Sunday schools for granted and have failed to realize that the spiritual values growing out of this education in religion are of vital importance to the maintenance of a free, moral and God-centered America.

We seriously send our children to the public school every day without sanctioning absence except for a very good reason. Many people permit a very slight reason to keep their children away from Sunday school.

At this time we should join the laymen sponsoring this week of religious emphasis to reaffirm our purpose and strengthen the work of religious education. It is the only study of God which some people will ever have.

"The ship's aground on a sand bar!"

The buzz of voices grew louder and louder and advanced up the beach like a flock of hornets.

Through the midnight hours the thread of hope grew thinner and thinner. It became obvious even to the most obstinate that she'd never pull away from the sand bar in time to load a thousand men.

Start 'School' First At Home, Expert Says

STILLWATER, Okla. — Learning, like charity, should begin at home, Dr. Robert MacVicar said. "But an even more important need is one the students themselves must supply—a genuine interest in learning."

"In too many instances, the efforts of good teachers are poorly received. It's like 'leading a horse to water.'"

"The place to begin corrective measures is, logically, where the problem got its start—in the American home."

MacVicar said he is convinced that failure on the part of students to show a genuine interest in learning can be attributed largely to early training in his home.

Air Force Sends Undercover Agents Into Vital Bases To Test Security Forces

OMAHA — The Air Force is sending "spies" and "saboteurs" into vital bases of the Strategic Air Command to test the effectiveness of their security barriers.

Undercover agents worm thru guarded gates with forced passes. They pose as milkmen or soft drink salesmen. Inside, they steal secrets or plant "bombs" to destroy equipment.

Col. Edward A. Crouchley, chief of internal security for the SAC, says special teams of agents have been carrying out these exercises since mid-1953. "They are quite often successful," he admits.

The engine of a pickup truck conks out as it passes a flight line and the driver wanders off to get help. Later, the truck is found to contain simulated explosives which would have blown up millions of dollars worth of aircraft.

Big Sentry Dogs

A visiting security officer asks a sergeant in a base communications section to protect his briefcase full of classified documents by placing it in the vault until he is ready to resume his flight. Sergeant, vault, codes and the communications section are blown sky high—or would be if the explosives in the briefcase were real.

Not all the penetrations are successful. Passes to two different bases looked exactly the same except for the name of the base, so an agent changed the base name on his pass to try to enter the other base. He is caught. One base used pink passes, the other gray. The agent was color blind.

The ranks of SAC security forces have been thinned by reduced appropriations and discharges since the end of the Korean War. Guards have been withdrawn from the outer perimeter of bases to points nearer flight lines, weapon storage areas and fuel tank fields.

But big sentry dogs are being used to beef up the security forces and penetration agents say the psychological effect of the snarling German Shepherds is terrific.

Use Electric Fence

The SAC-crews, says Crouchley, are the toughest element to protect. The friendliness and "big mouth" of the average U. S. serviceman is a threat difficult to overcome.

Agents have learned the entire plans for SAC missions simply by sitting in a tavern and listening to airmen gossip. Others have posed as insurance salesmen in order to ask questions.

The loose-lipped airmen get a stern dressing down for talking out of turn, and have been subjected to restrictions of privileges and in some cases demotion. As a result they soon get "gun-shy" of inquisitive strangers.

Mechanical devices also are being used to tighten up the security of SAC bases. Chief among these is an electric fence now being tested at several sites. They signal any approach to the fence. Still in the blueprint stage is a device named the "Black Box." It can be placed beneath a parked aircraft and, like the electronic fence, will flash a signal at a guardpost if anyone approaches the plane.

American Farmers Shared the Crops

ELKHART, Ind. — American farmers shared their blessings generously with hungry overseas nations in 1955, according to Albert W. Farmer, national director of the Christian Rural Overseas Program.

Farmer said preliminary figures show that $924,000 in commodities and cash gifts was contributed to the nationwide harvest drive sponsored by CROP.

In all, Farmer said, 24,127,399 pounds of food was distributed by CROP, an agency of Church World Service, in 25 countries.

In addition, CROP collected 189 head of cattle, 30 goats and 149 hogs for Heifer Project Incorporated, which sent the cattle and goats to Germany and Lebanon and the hogs to Puerto Rico.

The CROP organization in Texas sent 200 head of cattle, 20 goats and 50 hogs to Korea last July in a "Texas Friendship for Korea" program.

Farmer said 75,000 persons donated their time and effort in the CROP campaign last year.

IPAC Distributes 1,107,314 Pounds of Federal Surplus Foods

SPRINGFIELD — The Illinois Public Aid Commission today reported that 1,107,314 pounds of federal surplus food was distributed during March to persons on public assistance rolls in 21 southern Illinois counties.

The food, valued at about $200,000, was distributed at a cost of about $15,000, the IPAC said. Included were beans, butter, cheese, corn meal, dry milk, flour, lard, pork and gravy, rice and shortening.

Starting last week the Illinois Division of Traffic Safety began a series of meetings throughout the state to discuss with city, county and other officials the problems of developing a more productive traffic safety program. Local participants will include county judges, sheriffs, highway engineers, school people and others to review local accident prevention.

The first meeting on April 3 was at Springfield and it drew an attendance comprised of state police safety sergeants, state highway safety engineers and law enforcement, school safety, civic club and publicity and promotion specialists. Other meetings last week were at Quincy, Rock Island, and Peoria.

The sessions are called "Traffic Workshops" by Robert A. Campbell, Peoria, the division coordinator. He is being assisted by Phil M. Brown, Watseka, former state police chief who was transferred to the division by Gov. William G. Stratton because of his (Brown's) knowledge of highway safety problems as a state police chief and a former sheriff (Iroquois county).

Secretary of State Charles F. Carpenter, East Moline, has ordered all cars used by his office to be equipped with safety seat belts. The belts, he said, will be made to withstand a pull of 3,600 pounds. A new state law, sponsored by State Rep. Ralph Stephenson, Moline, requires all new passenger cars to be designed so as to provide equipment to which safety belts can be attached.

New Ink May Run Crooks Out of Business

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (U-P)—With a new ink on the market today, the modern crook is going to have a rough time making a dishonest living.

This ink, perfected by a pen company, defies the scoundrel. Say you are the scoundrel. You have a check for $500 and want to hike it into $5,000. You rub it out and change the 500 to 10 times its size and do the same on the line where you put an "no-100."

Well, sir, with the new ink any expert can turn on the black or ultra violet light, and a luminescent additive goes to work. When exposed the original writing shows up fine.

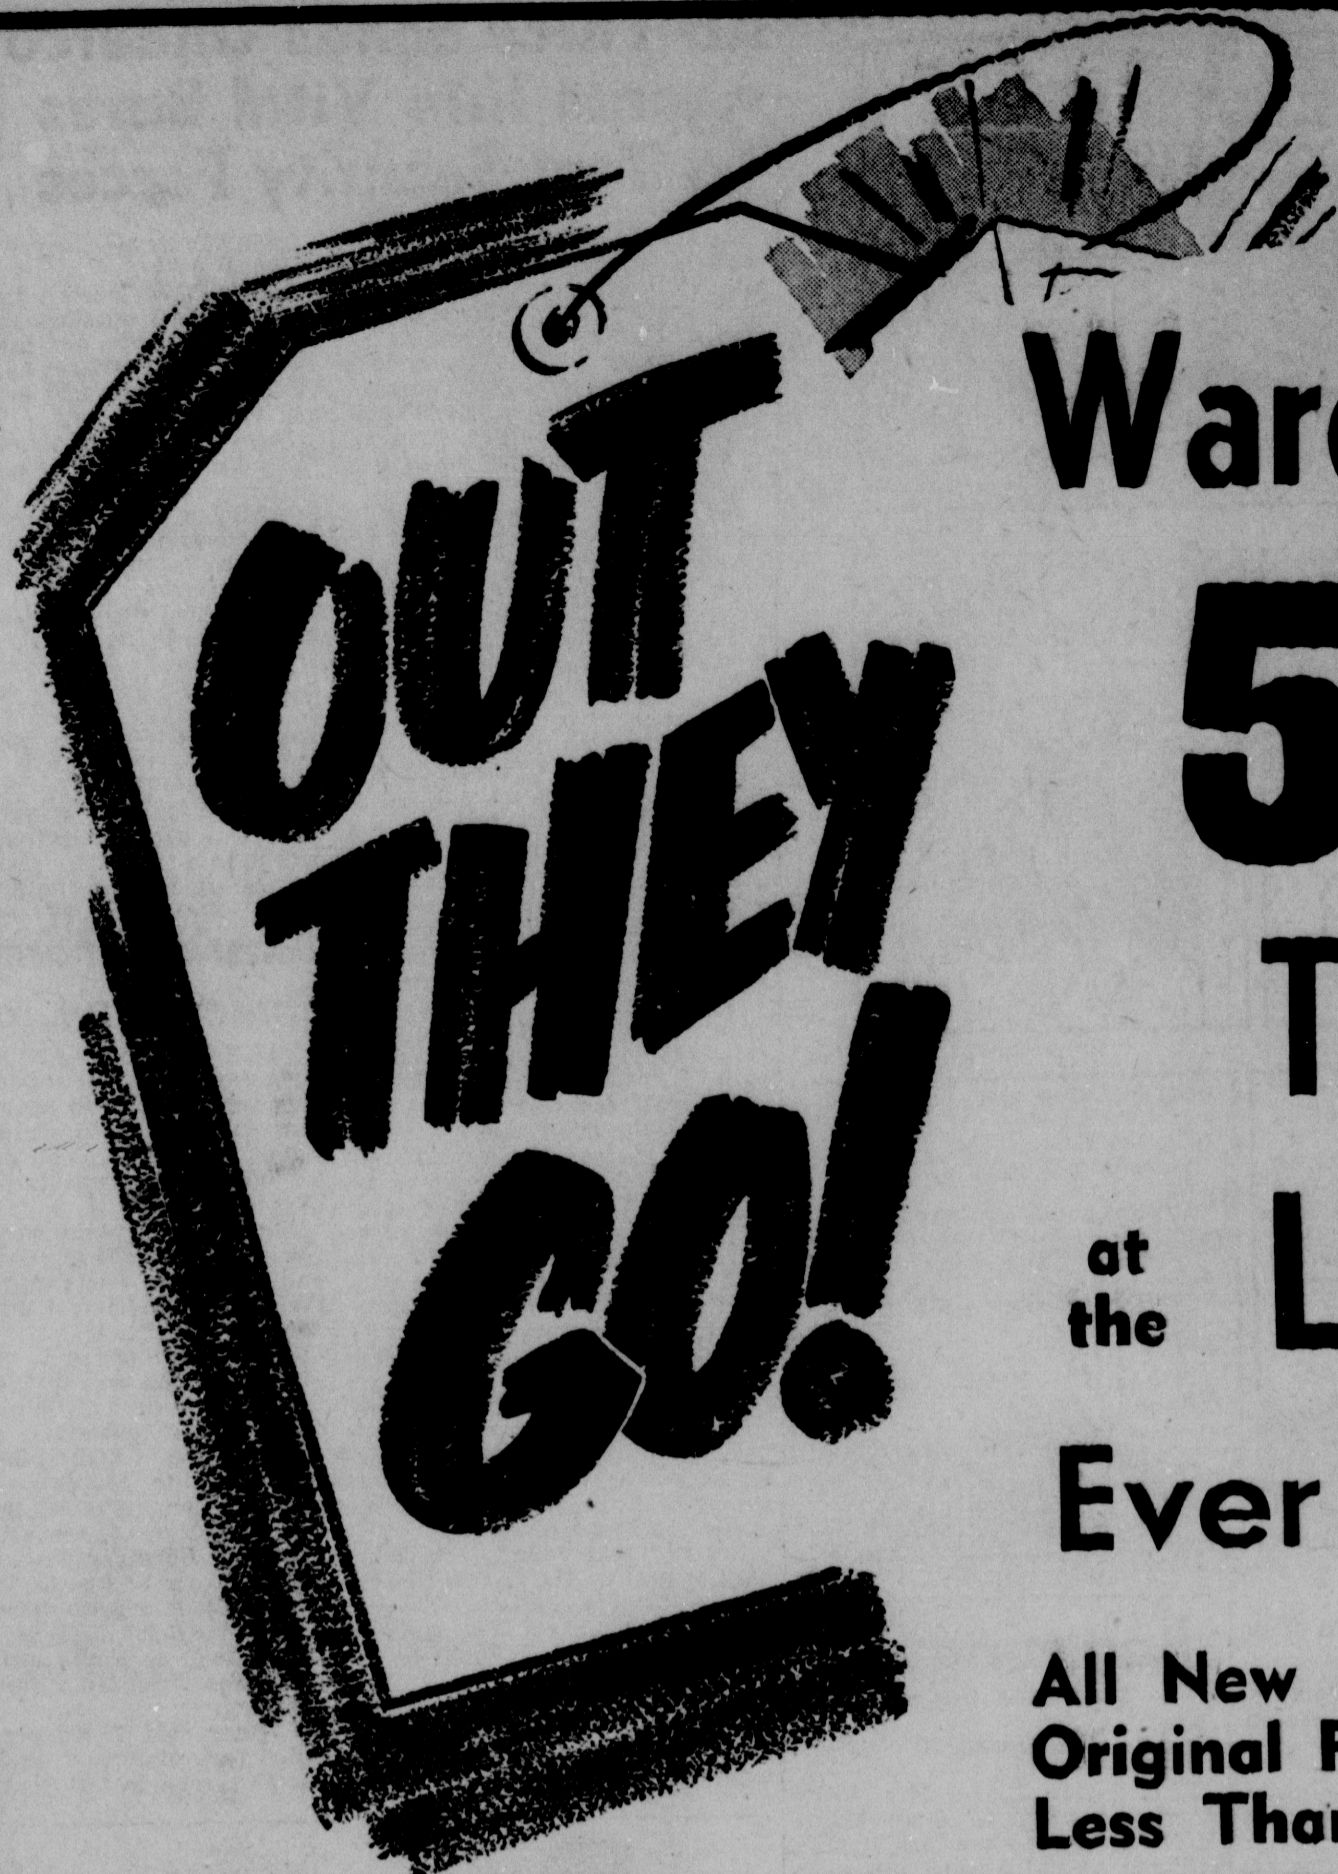

Banks are interested. So are other catchers of forgers. Which brings up the subject of how did ink really start? Nobody knows really.

The Chinese claim to have invented the stuff 4,500 years ago. But the first mention of it is said in most books to run back to the 6th Century B. C. — back to Jeremiah, in the Latin vulgate written by St. Jerome about 380 A. D. Jeremiah is quoted as "writing with ink."

In ancient Egypt, inks were made of a fine powder of carbon stirred with gum water to keep it in "suspension." Often copper preparations were used for dyes. Most inks today are 98 per cent water. And the new kind that may throw the crook out of business is made of the dregs from the Mississippi River, a muddy stream which runs a crooked course on its own.
